

10

RECEIVED
CENTRAL FAX CENTER

NOV 25 2009

Amendments to the Specification

Please amend paragraph [0077] as follows:

[0077] In such case, the specification 162 with all component and subassembly test results is forwarded to a manufacturing unit 156 to assemble the product 10, to attach the communications bus 72 and the components 74 to the product 10, and to test and configure the bus 72 and the components 74 both individually and as part of a cohesive whole in the product 10. The results of such testing and verification are appended to the specification 162 and stored in a local server database 169. Prior to final shipment, the specification 162L stored on the server 169 is downloaded to the manufacturing location (usually the same manufacturing location but now indicated by reference numeral 158 for the sake of clarity). The term, "computer system," as used herein encompasses one or more of the following: server 167, one or more personal computers 154 or the like, and communication means 156 (including the internet).